

Accompanies podcast "Faith at Work" - 11/21/21 at www.newdaynw.com/sermons

Do you consider your job to be your place of ministry? What is challenging about seeing it that way?

How might it look different to live out your faith at work rather than when you are with church friends? What specific pressures might the workplace present?

Actually talking about God on the job can often be problematic. What are other ways God might have for you to serve him that go beyond sharing a verbal testimony?

Read Colossians 3:17 and 1 Peter 3:15. Are there practices/spiritual disciplines you think might help you be better prepared to serve God on the job? What makes those practices difficult?

Identify one client/coworker/supervisor from your workplace that you would like to pray for. Ask God to not only meet their needs, but also increase your love for them.